

The Fuller - Bakewell

Where seen and date

e-Bay May-06

Notes and Comments

Interestingly, this Fuller does not have a Bakelite stock - as would be expected for this serial number and date. However, it is a Bakewell (Type 3) model and perhaps some of these special models made use of mahogany stock left after the change over to Bakelite stock for Type 1 production.

Additional comments

Note the knurled securing nut on the short index arm and the slots cut into the mounting and adjustment bracket of the long index. These features have previously been noted on Fuller-Bakewell calculators, but their purpose has not, as yet, been fully explained.